How to play the game of Nubo:

1. There are two opposing teams. For example: red and blue. Other name for teams can be chosen.
2. The ball must be worked from center field to one of the two goals on each team's side (meaning there are 4 goals, two on each side). Play begins when a player from each team (two center men) stands at the center field line three feet away from midcenter, the coach counts to three, then blows the whistle. The center players turn and run to the balls placed one on each side of the center yard line. (See Diagram A for starting positions). They may run with the ball, or pass it by kicking it or throwing it to the other six team members who are positioned on the field. Play continues simultaneously on both sides. The opposite team must block players from making a goal.

It is possible for one center player to obtain both balls for his team. The opposite team must recover the ball to score.

3. The ball may be snatched or slapped out of an opposing players hands, or intercepted during passing.

4. The goalies job is to block the ball from getting in the net. His legs are enclosed in Velcro and he must hop in front of the goal using his body and the shields to prevent scoring. When he is ready to be relieved, he raised a black flag and switches places with a field player chosen by the coach.

5. The three judges determine the plays (1 at center field, 2 on the sidelines). A goal is noted by blowing the whistle and raising the team's flag. A foul is also noted by blowing the whistle. Blowing the whistle stops play for that side of the field.

6. The first team to score 19 points wins the game. Points are scored by getting the ball into the net (by whatever means: throwing, kicking, punching it, bouncing it off the body, etc.). A half point is scored upon making a goal and another half point is scored for fouls against the team. After scoring, the ball is returned to mid center.

7. When the ball is passed between players by throwing it, the ball must be caught with one hand only. Any way points can be made without fouling, is allowable.

8. A foul returns the ball to midcenter, with the judges determining if the foul was intentional and whether or not a point will be scored. The player making the foul must sit on the bench until the opposing team scores a point.

9. The game is marked by three five minute break periods after each half hour of play. The game continues until the 19 points are scored.

10. After each break, the judges switch their referee posts.

Rules of the game:

1. The following constitutes a foul: tripping, fighting, biting, elbowing, tackling, and handling the goalie.
2. Once the goalie raises the black, flag, play on that side of the field stops, until he is replaced.

3. Then the ball is caught with more that one hand, the team forfeits the ball. The ball goes to the opposite team and the play starts from that point.

4. Questionable calls are determined by the third judge (who is not a coach).
